SEBH Strategy and Evidence Based Practices. Recovery.Able, California Department of Rehabilitation Services, California Department of Mental Health, California Department of Public Health. California Substance Abuse Treatment Facility, State of California, N12.2W 3 2 APN Bulletin Number 1 & 2 Spring Special Edition 2017 4 VISIBILITY Our Presidential Administration Has Introduced Criminal Justice Reforms that Addresses Racial and Ethnic Disparities in the Criminal Justice System Facing the Next Presidency, Many of us are eager to witness the results of the President's Justice reforms in the coming year. We are hopeful that our nation will begin to be made safe again. We hope to see our Police being trained properly to enforce the laws, our young black men being prosecuted and being convicted of the crimes committed by them, and our black women be treated fairly under the law. If these changes do not happen, I will be not surprised. The President has not satisfied these expectations. His short tenure as President has increased the challenges of delivering his second term agenda by establishing a new Chief Justice and appointing Supreme Court Justices that do not seem to be ready to implement the recommendations of his own Commission on Crime and Drugs. It is unfortunate that the president seems more interested in appeasing the racist, and the wealthy rather than to address the challenges facing our country. In response to the President's plan to rollback criminal justice reform, many of us are seeking out the different policies, procedures, and goals that are being implemented in our state by the departments of Justice and Public Safety. We have been fortunate to have several departments and agencies that have introduced new and innovative programs and policies that address the issues that plague our Black and Latinx communities. It is important for community members to be vigilant, and not be complacent about the crime and incarceration rates in our community. It is the responsibility of every citizen to challenge the racial and political biases that are currently embedded in our criminal justice system. We have a chance now, but the President and our State leaders have to make sure that we do not lose this momentum to make our nation safe again. In the meantime, we will continue to monitor and follow the progress of new programs and policies that have been developed by the departments of Justice and Public Safety. Within the last 6 months, the Governor and his administration have introduced several innovative programs and policies that address racial and ethnic disparities in our criminal justice system. The Administration has also provided considerable funding for new programs that have the potential to transform the face of our criminal justice system
