Category:Hindi film scores by Raamlaxman Category:Bollywood films Category:1996 filmsA tridimensional finite element model of the human mandible is developed to better understand the effect of oral habits on masticatory function. A one-dimensional (1D) linear model of the mandible is compared with a three-dimensional (3D) finite element model of the mandible and teeth. For both models, the 3D truss element was used. Anteriorly and posteriorly directed point loads are applied to the anterior border of the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th molar, and 1st and 2nd premolar. The stresses at these regions are then measured for the 3D finite element model, and the 1D linear model of the mandible. It is found that the stresses at the molar regions are significantly higher for the 3D model. Further, it is found that the stresses at the premolar regions are significantly higher for the 1D model. Thus, the linear model underestimates stresses in the molar regions and overestimates stresses in the premolar regions. The results are interpreted in terms of material properties and boundary conditions of the models.

Men's golf falls to Vols, women rally for fifth straight title The Lipscomb women's golf team made one last push and ultimately fell short of defending their tournament title, finishing runner-up to the top-seeded Tennessee Lady Volunteers at the 2019 Conference USA Championships Saturday at the Bulls' Turtle Creek Golf Club. The Lady Bisons started the tournament with a 4-1 win over UT Martin, but a 2-1 defeat to the Lady Vols on Wednesday sent Lipscomb into a tie with the Lady Vols at 1-2. Both teams posted a 3-over 291, resulting in a three-way tie for the overall lead. UT Martin won on the second extra hole to move up two spots to second place at 4-1. "Tennessee played very well," head coach Michael Haywood said. "They were hot off their two wins last weekend and they were ready to play. They came in a little bit overconfident and they jumped out to an early lead." The Lady Vols held a 19-16 lead over the Lady Bisons at the par-5 16th hole before Lipscomb rallied with a pair of birdies. The Lady Vols made a bo 2d92ce491b
