More info about the project: Looking for a professional IT person to join our team in Pune. $8K - $10K+ (Per year) We are looking for a project manager with experience in any kind of project management software like MS Project, Oracle Project, Prod-Dispersion etc. We will be providing a training. Should be able to write and document in English. I have a design I like for a website I'm working on, I'm just looking for someone who can convert it to HTML/CSS and if there's time, some AJAX to make it more dynamic. My budget is $100, and I would prefer someone local. Thanks, Andrea We are a small firm that does some graphic design work. We would like to hire a very skilled person (not an army) to handle the client communication. This includes keeping the client informed on status, answering any questions they may have, and managing the project once it is "launched". Resume is only required from those that have experience as an account executive. The candidate must have very good communication skills and be able to interact well with clients. They must be comfortable using Microsoft word and excel. The candidate must understand the relationship between a buyer and supplier and how to bring them together. The candidate must be able to work within a team environment. I need to develop some code to take the output of a sump pump and calculate how much money it has saved us over it's lifetime. It's not a very complex project but, I do need to get it up and running quickly. Most of it will be done in Excel, but the maths bits will need to be in some sort of programming language. We are setting up an opportunity portal site for both sellers and buyers where people can sell their items online. We would like to host this on a new website that we will build where people will be able to sell their items. We will write the backend software and set the pricing strategy for our services. We need a very skilled and motivated PHP developer to develop a backend site where ...Looking for a responsive website developer on PHP with minimum 5 years experience, Handle MailChimp account with sales, reports Responsive style Free consultation, free design, free

Comments When you see a Project that is labelled 'Project' you should assume that it is a Project that contains other Projects that are not open-source (except maybe you can do a svn status and see if you can determine if there are any open-source Projects or not). The project version should at least be 1.3.1 but the site says version 1.3. I believe, in light of your experience, that the developer refers to a new feature of JDK 5.0 which they wish to bring to Windows users. Hi, I tested your code, and it works fine in windows XP and Windows Server 2003. Moreover, the installer will also add DJ Project entry to the "Applications" -> "Add/Remove Programs" if you select the "Custom install" option as in the picture below: and select the DJ Project from the list. You may need to restart your PC to be able to use DJ Project again after installation. BTW, if the project is not released under an open-source license, you should choose the "custom" option on the Installer panel in order to have the DJ Project installed as an ordinary application. Moreover, for the case of Windows XP, you will also be able to locate DJ Project on your desktop (just select "My Desktop" from the "My Computer" -> "Places" -> "Desktop") --Patrick I see the custom installation and note that I have it as custom but
