Category: Structures of the Pascals triangle Category: Binary relations Category: Numerical analysisDonald Trump is following a very bad script. And not only is he continuing to flip-flop, but he's apparently doing so while forgetting the script at the same time, apparently with no memory whatsoever. Yesterday, he recited the well-known mantra, "I'm going to do this, I'm going to do that," in response to questions about the Hill leaks during an interview with ABC. And he did so again during a press conference earlier today. No one could be more surprised than I am that Donald Trump is running around the country telling lies and stoking fears on a daily basis. In the speech below, you'll see how the technique Trump is using to "create" public fear on immigration is actually based on the worst sort of racist fearmongering, and how he's doing it in a way that benefits him and his campaign. First, here's the clip from yesterday's presser: And here's the clip from today's presser: And here's the transcript of Trump's remarks during the press conference today: I'm going to do this, I'm going to do that. And I think — and I think it would be very — I think it would be very good for this country. But I haven't actually figured out what to do about it because it's happening. The leaks are real. You're getting some very bad ones. You know, when I found out, you know, it was on the news, "oh, the president's being told this." I was surprised to see it. You know, I'm a pretty open person. I think you have to be. But I can not have people leaking. I mean, I love the fact that they have but we can not have leaks. We can not have. There is — you know, for example, with the call — and I'm not going to say it was perfect, but in the call that was made with the Ukrainian President, it was perfect. It was perfect. President Zelenskyy call, which was perfect. It was perfect. I think we made a deal
