Written by City Journal (Continued from page 1.) The day is coming when the indispensable convention will be replaced by the trend-setting digital nonconvention.
In a world of "networked democracy" in which half the world's population is connected, the social, economic, and political boundaries that we have known - and exploited - for the past 500 years are becoming obsolete. The most important events are no longer "seen" but "heard" and "read." In a world defined by mass, then, our future leaders cannot afford to be seen. My background is in leadership. I have watched this transition happen over the past half-century. I used to think it was a...Time for a few small updates. First is the payment system. BitBay clients and exchange users can now purchase and sell BTC and BNB in popular fiat currency pairs, and pay for services on the platform, directly with their bank account. Deposits of all currencies except EUR and GBP are available. A deposit in BTC will take one day, and a deposit of EUR and GBP is available to our European users. Accounts are being processed in real time and deposited as soon as we can confirm that they have been credited by the banks. BitBay will be buying and selling

BTC and BNB on behalf of its users, and the platform has a back-up network of over 100 crypto exchanges. However, we want to assure our users that all deposits on the platform are held in BitBay's cold wallet which has 1000 BTC and 100 BNB. It cannot be accessed by an
