Photoshop tools Canvas Canvas is the default display on which you create your work. You can only have a single canvas open at a time. All brushes and selections are copied to this canvas when you press Enter. Canvas is layered. It includes built-in layers, like Background and Foreground, a Layer palette, Layer Mask, Layer Styles and the ability to create, edit, merge and delete them. You can zoom and crop your image. You can use any type of layer style on any type of layer in a canvas. The only limitation is that a layer can only have one layer style. For example, if you want to create a layer with five different blending modes, you can not assign five different layer styles. You can move and resize the canvas by dragging the corners of the canvas. Brushes and Photoshop brush tool You can use different Adobe Photoshop brushes with the Brush tool. In addition, you can also use Custom Shape, Eye dropper tool to select colors, bezier tool to draw shapes, rectangle tool to draw rectangles, ellipse tool to draw ellipses and more. The brush features available in this version are limited to the standard 100 Basic and 100 Popular Photoshop brushes. Filters You can apply Filters on images. You can also customize the filters by applying different presets and add brush strokes and new filters. The filters panel has a variety of filters, including several presets like posterize, emboss, soften, and up, Down. Basic editing tools This version doesn't offer all Photoshop editing tools. Some of the features you don't get are Perspective and Warp tools, Adjustment tools and all color adjustments available in Photoshop and more. However, you can still perform common editing tasks like reducing the sharpness of a photo, automatically removing red eye from your images, removing lens flares or reducing noise. Expand sections In the bottom right hand corner of a canvas there is a triangle icon, click it to expand all sections. You can collapse sections by clicking the icon again. Kouandjio, will miss the end of the regular season, according to a school spokesperson. Kouandjio, who has been dealing with a balky ankle since early in the season, has been medically cleared to play. But he will not see any action in the Iron Bowl or the Outback Bowl. Instead, the 6-foot-5, 304-pound Kouandjio will finish the regular season as Alabama's third-team left tackle. He will have to redshirt. Because of the new rule, first-time redshirt seniors will either have to redshirt and enter the 2013 season as a junior or have the opportunity to play four seasons. was a nail file."
