The Pakistan government and private organisations should develop alternatives to reducing the burning of solid waste. It is an urgent national priority. Various environmental and health problems arise due to burning the solid wastes. Solid waste disposal methods have been tried like burning, dumping, landfill and composting. But it is now time to think about alternative waste management strategies.

Instead of dealing with the burning of wastes, new waste management strategies should be developed. In 1984, Pakistan started to develop a circular waste system with recycling. But the circular waste is incomplete and waste is still being burning. So, it is important to develop a system for the disposal of waste. Awaaz is a citizen's initiative to promote environmental protection. We are concerned about environmental issues and try to improve our society.
